NEWTON GIRLS MISSING FROM HOME 3 DAYS

Sisters, Aged 9 and 11, Disappear After Leaving for School.

WITH FATHER, MOTHER CLAIMS

Mrs. Newton Believes Husband Is Striving for Reconciliation.

SEPARATED FOR SOME TIME

Policeman Stands Guard While Husband and Wife Talk at Fayette Park—Mrs. Newton Fails to Learn Where Children Are.

Bessie and Helen Newton, aged 9 and 11 years, respectively, disappeared from their home, No. 909 East Fayette street, Thursday, and all efforts on the part of their mother, Mrs. Isaac Newton, to obtain information regarding their whereabouts have thus far been unsuccessful.

The children, Mrs. Newton said yesterday, are with her husband, from whom she has been separated for some months. It is her opinion that the father enticed them away as they were going to school Friday afternoon, believing that by this method he could bring his wife back to him. An interview between husband and wife yesterday afternoon in Fayette park, however, did not tend to simplify matters.

The departure of the Newton children on the same day Richard Simmons, the 9-year-old son of Mrs. Peter Simmons of the same address, disappeared has caused considerable excitement in the neighborhood. Both families live on the same floor of the building at No. 909 East Fayette street. Mrs. Newton and her children, according to neighbors, have resided there less than two weeks.

Told of Meeting Parent.

At noon Thursday the Newton girls returned from school for dinner. They had met their father, they said, and he had asked them to dress in their best clothes and meet him in the afternoon, as he wished to have their pictures taken. Their grandmother, Mrs. Dillon, suspecting that the photograph story was a ruse by which Newton intended to obtain possession of the children, advised them to go to school by a different route. This they promised to do, and left their home shortly after 1 o'clock.

That was the last seen of the children at home, and when their mother returned from work at 6 o'clock she was informed of their absence. Grief stricken, Mrs. Newton says she spent the greater part of Friday and Saturday nights on the streets, searching for a clew to their whereabouts. Exhausted by her efforts, the mother started out again yesterday morning in a vain search for her daughters.

Shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon a messenger boy stopped at the East Fayette street address and delivered to Mrs. Newton a note signed by her husband. According to those who read it the note stated that if Mrs. Newton wished to see the children she might meet her husband at the South State street side of Fayette Park at 5 o'clock and he would have the girls with him.

Mrs. Newton was cautioned not to go alone to the park, but to inform the police and have a detective accompany her. Fearing that any loss of time would injure her chances of regaining possession of the children, she did not apply at the police station, but requested a patrolman on the beat in the vicinity of the park to stand guard at the meeting.

Children Not With Him.

Promptly at 5 o'clock Mr. Newton appeared, but the children were not with him. For fifteen minutes husband and wife conversed, but, according to Mrs. Newton, no satisfactory agreement was reached. Her husband had told her, Mrs. Newton said, that if she desired to see the children she must accompany him to a house "north of the canal." This Mrs. Newton refused to do, and immediately returned home without having learned where the children were. Last night Mrs. Newton was reticent. She had left her husband some months ago, she said, taking Bessie and Helen with her.

"I have suspected," she said, "that he would try to get the girls away from me, but I did not expect he would take this method of doing it. If he finds out that I am trying to regain them, he may take them away from the city. He is only keeping them because he believes he can get me to live with him again. I will get the children, though, as soon as I find out where they are, and this I expect to do within twenty-four hours. I know that Helen, the oldest, will write me a note, and if she cannot mail it to me she will drop it out of a window of the house in which she is being kept. If she does this some one will find the note and I will eventually get it."

Asked what transpired at her meeting with her husband, Mrs. Newton declined to answer.

RICHARD SIMMONS, AGED 9, STILL MISSING FROM HOME

The disappearance of Richard Simmons is still a mystery to his mother. "My husband left me March 18," said Mrs. Simmons yesterday. "He went, I think, to the Great Lakes in search of employment. I have been told by four persons that they saw Richard talking to a man answering my husband's description Thursday afternoon and that the two went away together. One boy told me he heard Richard say, 'What will mamma say?' and the man answered, 'Never mind. You will see her again soon.' I also heard that the same man and my son were seen taking a trolley car for Rochester."

When Richard went to school Thursday morning he wore a pair of brown striped knickerbockers, a gray flannel blouse, a light brown cap and black shoes and stockings. He was seen in the school yard in the morning and in the afternoon some of his schoolmates said they saw him in the city watching the parade of the police and firemen.

GUN'S CHARGE SHATTERS HAND

George B. Peck Is Accidentally Shot at Memphis.

HIS HAND OVER THE MUZZLE

Victim Cannot Tell What Caused the Trigger to Snap—Hospital Surgeons Fear Tetanus May Set In—May Lose Finger.

George B. Peck of Memphis, 19 years old, is at the Hospital of the Good Shepherd with a gunshot wound in the palm of his left hand, the result of the accidental discharge of a shotgun at Memphis late yesterday afternoon. Pieces of bone were blown through the back of the hand and may cause the loss of the middle finger, besides leaving the hand otherwise crippled.

Peck was standing with his hand over the muzzle of the gun when the trigger snapped. What caused this he is unable to explain. The charge tore a hole three-quarters of an inch in diameter in the palm of the hand spreading out as it passed through and leaving a gaping wound at the back, with pieces of bone protruding. Dr. Fowler of Warner was called to attend the injured man and brought him to Syracuse on a Rochester, Syracuse & Eastern trolley car at 6.30 o'clock, taking him to the hospital in the ambulance.

Hospital surgeons said that most of the skin was torn from the back of the hand and the flesh lacerated. While they expect to be able to save the hand, they say the middle finger may have to be amputated. There is danger, too, of tetanus from wadding in the end of the shell, and anti-tetanic serum was administered.

RECEIVES FATAL ATTACK WHILE CROSSING STREET

Mrs. Caroline Harrison Stricken With Heart Disease—Dies Soon After Arrival at Hospital.

An attack of heart disease as she was crossing the street to visit a neighbor caused the death of Mrs. Caroline Harrison of No. 615 Jackson street at the Hospital of the Good Shepherd at 7.30 o'clock last night.

Mrs. Harrison was carried from the street to her own front porch. Dr. Jesse S. Helman was called. Mrs. Harrison was unconscious when the physician reached her, but rallied from the attack. An ambulance was then summoned to take her to the hospital, where she died a few minutes after her arrival. Acute dilitation of the heart was said to have caused death.

Mrs. Harrison was about 65 years old and was the widow of Jacob L. Harrison. Surviving her are eight children, four sons, Benjamin, Samuel, Louis and Solomon Harrison, and four daughters, Eva C., Cipa, Ray and Catherine Harrison, also several brothers and sisters. Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed.

IN QUARREL OVER GIRL, ITALIAN IS BADLY CUT

The love making of 15-year-old Mary Di Vassio and Luigi Di Stefano of Lakeland took a serious turn last evening at 6.30 o'clock, when Luigi stabbed Camillo Ginbrocco, another suitor for the girl's hand, sent him to the hospital and landed in jail himself, after a chase of nearly two miles.

Luigi and the girl were walking in Cogswell avenue, Solvay, and Luigi claims Camillo and the latter's two brothers, Vincenzo and Angelo, followed them. Luigi claims Camillo hit him in the head with a stone and he retaliated by plunging a knife into his opponent's thigh. Friends carried Camillo into a house and the police were called.

Luigi ran through the village and west in the Belle Isle road. Patrolmen Hildenbrand, Eldred and Loosmore, with drawn guns, gave chase. The pursuit was hot to a point beyond Geres Locks, over a mile from the village, where Luigi turned through a field, with the officers after him. Eldred fired as Luigi approached a creek, and the young Sicilian lay down, rolled through the creek in the water and mud, and again dashed on. In an oat field he was brought to bay, and surrendered his knife. The officers walked him back to the village jail. The girl was held in parole as a witness, and Vincenzo Ginbrocco was locked up as a witness. At St. Josephs Hospital Camillo was under an anesthetic at an early hour this morning, while surgeons worked over a five-inch slash in his leg extending to the bone.

ROOSEVELT MAY KEEP HANDS OFF

Syracuse Republicans Doubt If He'll Aid Governor's Primary Plan.

NOT A HUGHES ENTHUSIAST

Reports from New York Say Party Leaders Will Ask Him to Oppose Forced Action—Legislators Expect Long Session.

That Theodore Roosevelt will decline to join in an attempt to force the enactment of a direct primary law at the extra session of the Legislature is the view expressed by many Syracuse Republicans who are familiar with the former President's long public career. According to reports from New York, a number of party leaders will urge upon him not a neutral attitude, but the expression of definite opposition to Governor Hughes programme.

These leaders, according to statements in yesterday's New York papers, will urge Mr. Roosevelt that the widespread sentiment in the state is against primary legislation at this time in view of the fact that the subject received full consideration at a large legislative session. According to these reports the leaders will also urge that the solidarity of the Republican party in the state will be endangered if a policy which has but slight popular support and much general opposition is forced by extraordinary pressure upon an unwilling Legislature. It is expected that the friends of Mr. Hughes will urge Mr. Roosevelt to come to the Governor's rescue.

In this connection, it is pointed out, that Mr. Roosevelt has never shown any great enthusiasm for either Governor Hughes or his policies. Many Republicans express the view that Mr. Roosevelt will decline to be drawn into the primary controversy.

Onondaga legislators take the view that the extraordinary session of the Legislature will be a protracted affair and may last until August. Doubt is expressed if anything like the 150 members of the Assembly can be induced to remain in Albany. Many legislators are expected to collect their mileage and then start for home.

A majority of the members of Assembly are men of moderate means. They receive no extra compensation for attendance at the special session called by the Governor. The long regular session has exhausted in expenses, for even the most economical legislator, the $1,500 salary received. It is impossible to live at the state Capital for less than five or six dollars a day. This expense, with neglected work at home, is expected to thin the legislative ranks after the first few days.

An Onondaga legislator will receive $13.83 mileage as his total reimbursement for attendance at the extraordinary session. Legislators living farther away from the capital will get a little more, and those nearer a little less. With the prospect of the Governor's extraordinary event continuing into dog days, lawmakers here and all over the state are regarding the outlook as dubious from a financial standpoint.

AMPHION PIANO COMPANY BUYS WALL PAPER PLANT

West End Firm Will Run Both Factories, Putting on 500 More Men.

The plant of the Syracuse Wall Paper Company in North Clinton street, which was closed two years ago, was sold Saturday to the Amphion Piano Company of No. 1608 West Fayette street. The new property is to be used as a piano factory in conjunction with the Amphion Company's present plant in the West End.

The sale, which was conducted by Dr. L. A. Saxer, representing the company's interests, was attended by officers of many of the largest wall paper manufactories in the United States. Among them were: Isaac Collingsworth, Enterprise Company, Philadelphia, Pa.; John McCay, York Card and Paper Company, York, Pa.; John J. Findley, York Wall Paper Company, York, Pa.; Luke McCartney, Quaker City Wall Paper Company, Philadelphia, Pa.; J. Hupdick, Hudson Falls; Fred Stalb, Allen-Higgins Company, Worcester, Mass.; John Dillon, Standard Wall Paper Company, Hudson Falls; Frank Page, Becker, Smith & Page Company, Philadelphia; Fred Lindsay, New York; John T. McCabe, Imperial Paper Company, Hackensack, N. J.

Frank E. Wade, attorney for the piano company, purchased the building at a price not made public, and the machinery was sold to Frank Lindsay of New York, who in turn sold it in parcels to various firms. It was stated yesterday that both plants would soon be in operation with an additional force of more than 500 men.

Officers of the Syracuse Wall Paper Company declared yesterday that the sale of the property would greatly reduce the loss to individual stockholders.

STATE BOARD WILL TRY TO SETTLE STRIKE HERE

With no overtures from the striking garment workers or from the companies operating the largest three clothing shops in Syracuse for a settlement of the strike for a 10 per cent. increase in wages, information was received in this city last night that the State Board of Arbitration would seek to arrange a conference between the strikers and their employers. It was said last night that the state board had detailed one of its members to come here for the purpose of arranging the conference and securing a settlement if possible.

WORK HELD UP BY VOTE BILL

Improvements on Railroads Await Developments at Washington.

DECLARES PRESIDENT BROWN

Head of the Central Lines, on the Way West, Discusses Situation —Expects Heavy Summer Travel.

"Practically everything connected with proposed developments in the system is held in suspension until the rate bills and other matters are disposed of in Washington," said President W. C. Brown of the New York Central lines yesterday while in Syracuse. He was on the way West in his private car, attached to the Fast Mail, which reached here at 7.35 last evening.

The question of advancing freight charges, he said, was still unsettled and nothing would be definitely announced until the situation cleared in Washington. When asked if the company would withdraw its orders for improvements in the equipment of the lines, President Brown stated that this was also in suspense with other matters.

"The advances in the wages of the employes of the Central lines," he declared, "amount to practically $4,000,000 a year east of Buffalo, and about the same sum west of that point. It is a situation we must meet. All the railroad companies are in practically the same position as our company, so that the condition generally is one of waiting for developments."

Preparations, he added, are being made for a large amount of summer travel, and he believed that the prospect indicated a heavy business. He said that there were no developments in any of the matters which particularly related to Syracuse.

While here President Brown inquired after the health of General Superintendent S. R. Payne, who has been ill.

BOY LANDS ON PAVEMENT; PUSHED BY A PLAYMATE

Louis Verzano Shoved Off Bridge Abutments at Salina Street—Police Disperse Crowd.

Louis Andriola, son of Giuseppe Andriola, who is a fruit vender at the Salina street bridge over the Erie canal, pushed Louis Verzano of No. 1609 Lodi street, 10 years old, off the stone abutments of the bridge at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The Verzano boy landed heavily on the asphalt pavement, bruising his face and injuring one of his eyes.

While Mr. Andriola and a policeman were taking care of the injured boy, the former's son ran to his home at No. 36 West Towpath. While the owner of the fruit stand was washing blood from the boy's face the police were called to disperse a crowd which blocked the approach to the bridge. The injured boy was treated to some bananas by Mr. Andriola, after which the latter went home, spanked his son and resumed business at the fruit stand.

FIVE MEN ARRESTED, ASLEEP ON LUMBER PILE

"Kid Myers of Boston, champion featherweight of Connecticut," was the pedigree given by a man arrested at 11 o'clock last night by Patrolman Connell on a charge of vagrancy. The officer found him with four other young men sleeping on a lumber pile at Oak and Lodi streets. Myers claimed No. 245 Salem street as a home. Those with him said they were Joseph Logan of No. 504 Grand street, Christian Walsh of No. 502 Grand street, Hubert Oberle of No. 907 Garden street and Alexander Jones of No. 415 Grand street, all of Hoboken. The four said they were on their way to Detroit.

CHECK THE TIDE OF IMMIGRATION

Rev. A. E. Thistleton Pleads Eloquently for Greater Restrictions.

LAWS TOO LAX, HE DECLARES

Pastor Decries Noisy Sabbaths and Bid Dinners and Social Luncheons Before or After Church—Liberty or License?

In a sermon urging a restriction of immigration and of naturalization, Rev. A. E. Thistleton declared at the Danforth Congregational Church last evening that for seventy-five years the United States has been admitting "the criminals, thugs, pickpockets and murderers of Europe."

"The life of this nation," he said, "is in such grave peril that every man is bound to come forward and do his duty toward saving it." The subject of the sermon was: "Is America Free, or Is She Too Free?" Mr. Thistleton said in part:

"If a man is going to be a free man, he must be a good man. If he is not a good man he is dangerous. A free man, with no master, is dangerous. George Washington said the commonwealth could not endure unless its people were educated. Freedom without education and religion is the greatest monster in the country. How are we keeping faith with the founders of the country?

"The question now is, have we anything to give the oppressed of other nations. We haven't the land to offer them. Can we offer them freedom of religion? Can we offer them free politics? If we have nothing to give them it is wrong to let them come into the country in droves.

"The first fact to consider is that immigration is so vast as to put the country to a great disadvantage. Foreigners come at the rate of more than 500,000 a month in some months of the year, a high percentage as compared with the present population.

"The better element does not come. They are satisfied at home and are too valuable to be allowed to come. The great bulk of our population consists of the lowest elements of Europe. What we need is the brains and sinew of foreign countries. Give them freedom and they will swamp us. We have already begun to go down. We will have to restrict legislation. The time must come when we must face the proposition. Immigrants should be compelled to show some education, property qualifications, health and good moral character.

"For us to receive all the criminals, pickpockets, thugs and murderers as we have in the past seventy-five years and because of our vitality think we can digest it, is absurd in the highest.

Foreigners Hold Balance of Power.

"With our unusualy laxe naturalization laws men who cannot read or write any language offset with their votes the votes of the educated and property owners. They have no conception of American ideals and are all corrupt because of their ignorance. They control the elections. Take a city of 20,000 voters, 10,000 belonging to one party, 10,000 belonging to another and 2,000 foreigners; the latter are in control.

"We are governed by the lodging house floaters, the gambling den habitues and criminals. Syracuse is, and don't you doubt it for a minute. It is the vote of this class I am speaking of.

"The greater question is religious freedom. Do you suppose you could find rest and quiet for worship in some cellar and be dust clear and gasoline clear? Where would you go to-day to worship and get away from the honk honk of the automobile and the noise of the trolley cars? Whose porch is not covered with dust a dozen times, if you try to sit there half an hour? In New York several churches have had to move out of their districts to make way for the elevated roads. You would have to go way back to the woods to worship according to the dictates of your conscience. In Syracuse the powers that be have decreed that the church must compete with the moving picture shows. The fact is that the church is seriously handicapped at all times. They have to compete with all forms of vice openly flaunting itself.

"There are no Sunday shelf lunches now of crackers and cheese, but a big dinner and a social luncheon before or after church at night. You have no day of peace and quiet. There has been too much relaxation. The camel got his nose under the tent and then dragged itself and both its humps in the place meant for men. In place of religious books, irreligious, vulgar and even profane books are read on Sunday.

Give Children Toys on Sunday?

"You used to say give the children a few toys. Give them their toys now on Sunday and they will have a whole circus on the front porch or in the parlor. See how the camel has dragged itself into the tent. Is this liberty or is it license? It is so hard to interest men and women in spiritual things. The great throngs go right by the doors. Unless there is more religion, uncorrupt politics, less immigration and a higher standard of morality, it will not be the greatest nation on earth, but the lowest and meanest."

PHYSICIANS RETURN FROM THE CONVENTION

Drs. Murray, Wynkoop and Stephenson Are Home from Meeting in St. Louis.

Dr. Dwight H. Murray, E. J. Wynkoop and F. H. Stephenson have returned from St. Louis, and Dr. John J. Buettner is expected home this morning. They attended the meeting of the American Medical Association as representatives from this city. Dr. Murray was the retiring president of the American Protological Society, one of the sections of the association. He read a paper before the association on undergraduate instruction. Dr. Wynkoop, before the Medical Teachers Section, gave a paper on "The Teaching of the Surgery of Children."

The Syracuse physicians say they did not attend the entertainment of the Surgery Section of the association, at which "Fatima," a Nautch dancer, made a sensation. Some of them declared they had not heard of it until they had left St. Louis.
